

PRIVACY POLICY

We prefer your memes to your passport.

Last updated: October 16, 2026 | cdsu.xyz

PLEASE DO NOT SEND US YOUR SEED PHRASE. We cannot protect a secret you paste into a public chat, and the seal is not a hardware wallet.

01 The Short Version

We try to collect only what the Site needs to work, stay reasonably secure and run its public features.

cdsu.xyz may process technical information such as IP address, browser or device details, timestamps, request logs, session identifiers and anti-abuse signals. If you choose to use public features, we may also process the nickname, optional X handle, chat message, game result or other content you intentionally submit.

If you leave an email for collectible availability, we use it to contact you when the figures become available. Your preorder-interest email is not displayed publicly.

If wallet functionality is added or you interact through a wallet, public wallet addresses and on-chain activity may be visible on the blockchain. Public blockchains are famously bad at forgetting things.

02 Message Flipper: What Happens in the Mirror Stays in the Mirror

Text entered into the message flipper is intended to be transformed locally and not stored merely because you typed it. If that implementation changes, this Policy should change too. The seal does not need an archive of your grocery list backwards.

03 Things You Intentionally Make Public

- a nickname you submit to the leaderboard;
- a Mirror Sprint score and optional X handle, with a clickable public profile link;
- a message you intentionally post to the shared chat; and
- anything you choose to publish yourself through a prefilled X share flow.

Public means public. Do not put private keys, seed phrases, passwords, personal financial information or sensitive personal information in these fields.

04 Why We Process Anything at All

- to load the Site and remember basic interface preferences;
- to operate game sessions, the leaderboard and shared chat;
- to notify you about collectible availability if you leave an email for that purpose;
- to prevent spam, abuse, fake scores and attacks;
- to diagnose bugs, outages and performance issues, and understand aggregate feature usage; and
- to comply with legal obligations or respond to valid legal requests where required.

05 Cookies, Local Storage and Tiny Browser Cupboards

The Site may use cookies, local storage or similar browser technologies for necessary session state, privacy choices, security, the frost intro, normal or flipped view and optional repeat-visit settings. See the Cookie Policy for the longer version with more tiny cupboards.

06 Analytics and Service Providers

The Site uses self-hosted Umami to understand aggregate usage, such as page views and interactions. Hosting, security, database or content-delivery providers may process limited information needed to provide their services. Non-essential analytics should respect consent requirements where they apply.

External services such as X, wallets, explorers, launch platforms or trading venues have their own privacy practices. Flippy Seal Units cannot reach through the mirror and rewrite them.

07 How Long We Keep Things

Retention depends on the data and why it exists. Browser preferences may remain until they expire or you clear them. Security logs may be retained for an operational period. Public chat and leaderboard data may remain until deleted, moderated or the feature is retired. We do not promise to preserve community content forever.

08 Your Choices

- clear cookies and local storage through your browser;
- use any cookie-preference control available on the Site;
- do not submit content you do not want displayed publicly;
- where applicable, ask for access, correction, deletion, restriction, portability or objection; and
- withdraw consent where processing depends on consent, subject to applicable law.

For privacy requests, use a contact method published at cdsu.xyz. Never include a seed phrase, private key or password in a privacy request. The seal does not need it.

09 Security, Children and Changes

We use reasonable measures intended to protect the Site and the information it processes, but no website or blockchain system is perfectly secure. Protect your device, accounts and wallet credentials.

The Site is not designed to collect personal information from children where parental consent would be required by applicable law. This Policy may be updated as the Site evolves; the date at the top identifies the current version.
